ITEMS OF ALL SORTS.

—A bridge is about to be built across the Colorado, at Austin, Texas.

—The late rains injured the tobacco crop in Sumner county, Tennessee.

—Paul Dismukes, of Gallatin, Tennessee, has invented a clover seed gatherer.

—It is less than six years since the first six miles of railway were opened in Minnesota. It now has 474 miles in actual use.

—The late Agricultural Fair, at Gallatin, Tennessee, notwithsanding the unfavorable weather, is regarded as a success.

—The back waters on the creeks between Gallatin and Huntsville have stopped the regular running of the Carthage stage line.

—In an occasional jaunt through the woods, we find trees loaded with mast. The beech and white oak trees are especially full.—Huntington West Tennessean, September 24.

—The farmers are now busy grinding the Sorghum cane, and boiling down the molasses. It is feared that the long rains may have shortened the yield. It sells at seventy five cents per gallon.—Gallatin Examiner.

—According to the St. Joseph Daily Gazette the Registrars of that part of Missouri are re-enacting the scenes that have immortalized the wretches who, in Nashville, manipulate the registration of voters in the interest of Brownlow.

—The Phœnix building, Atlanta, Ga., fell with a great crash on the 1st inst. Fortunately no lives were lost and no person injured. The loss in building and stock is placed as high as $15,000. The building was the property of the Misses Clarke.

—We are fast assuming the proportions of a city. The confidence game was successfully played here on several of our citizens last week. One attempt at burglary and robbery, several street fights and numerous drunks, form the report for the week.—Fort Smith, Ark., Herald.

—It now transpires that the mysterious steamer Denubarton, which left New York a few weeks since with a cargo of warlike stores, was the property of the Spanish revolutionists, and was the steamer in which Gen. Prim recently made his appearance off the Spanish coast.

—Bridget Edith O'Gorman alias Sister Teresa de Chantal, is out in a card in the New York Tribune denying her alleged seduction by Father Walsh. She exonerates that gentleman fully, and hopes her denial will find as general circulation as the scandal. We hope so for the sake of the church.

—Our farmers are now busy gathering their corn and fodder. It is said that the present is the heaviest corn crop that East Tennessee has produced for many years. Not only is the quantity without precedent, but it is also of the most excellent quality. The grass crop is also unusually heavy.—Kingston East Tennessean, September 24.

—The Cincinnati Commercial, of Saturday, has an account of the death of a noted nymph du pave, Kate Starling, who, in a fit of delirium, swallowed a dose of morphine and died from its effects. She was for years noted for her beauty, and was, at one time, rescued from infamy and assigned a place in society, becoming the leader of a fashionable church choir, but her passions were too much for her, and she fell away, and at last filled an unhonored grave.

—J. M. Newton, of Lee county, who was confined in our jail on a charge of setting fire to the town of Verona last spring, escaped last Sunday night by scratching a hole through the wall. Up to last accounts he has not been heard from. He left a polite note to the jailer, giving his reason for vamoosing, and saying that he would be on hand to attend his trial, but did not like confinement.—Our Own Newspaper, Pontotoc, Miss.

—September, '68, will long be remembered in Columbus. Members of nearly every household have been stricken with disease—too many of them, alas! have felt the icy presence of the reaper, death. Craped doors have become so familiar that they hardly excite comment, and in the house of God the minister takes an eloquent text from the troubled faces of his hearers and from benches that look mournful for their absent occupants.—Columbus, Miss., Index.

—Prof. Lipscomb, of the University of Georgia, now traveling in Europe, writing from Berlin, says: "The dogs are put to work and kept at work. They are a race of business dogs—educated dogs—polite dogs. I watch them daily. How demurely they pull their little carts along, toiling in the harness! Hundreds of them may be seen in the streets, making money and saving money. I have a great liking for these dogs. And I wish some dogs I know were sent over here and taught German."

—A child of Rev. James M. Lennard, who lives near Bethel Church, eight or ten miles from Columbus, was drowned recently. Its age was in the neighborhood of four years. It had fallen into a well. The body was lifeless before it could be recovered. The father descended into the well to save his child, but he was soon made insensible by the gases which had collected over the water. With great difficulty he was rescued. Mr. L. is an estimable Baptist minister, who lost a leg while fighting for our Confederacy. He has the deep sympathy of many friends.—Columbus, Ga., Sun.

—The Weekly Coahomian of Saturday last says: As Louis Thomas, colored, was on Saturday night last returning from Friar's Point to his home on Hopson bayou, he stopped at the house of a a friend on Sheriff ridge. At a late hour of the night the house was surrounded by a body of armed freedmen, who gave as their reason for being under arms, that they were hunting Democrats. The man in whose house Louis was, placed himself at the door with a double-barreled shot gun, and held the would-be assassins at bay until Louis escaped through a back window. This occurrence is one of the most forcible commentaries upon the times to which the public mind can be called.

—We have been through the cotton fields in some of the best upland cotton plantations in Dallas county, and have talked with some of the best planters in this vicinity, and we know that anything like an average yield will be an exception to an almost universal rule. The drought, the caterpillar, and the boll worm, following each other in rapid succession, have also destroyed the crop in this section. The bolls are all exposed, and are opening very rapidly. On the upland places in this portion of the country, the picking will be pretty well over by the first of next month. In the main, the places we have visited will not yield one bale to 8 acres, or 10 acres, the usual yield being one bale to 2½ or 3 acres. And similar reports reach us, well authenticated, from other portions of Dallas and the adjoining counties.—Selma Times.

—The Nashville Banner of Saturday has an account of the shooting of a Mr. Purcell, a house carpenter of that city, in Pulaski, last Monday, by an ex-Federal soldier, whose name is Burns. Purcell, with others, was building a house in Pulaski, and by some means had become acquainted with Burns; that they entered a saloon together, and joined in a social glass. Neither, it seems, was acquainted with the other's antecedents till they came out. As they walked together along the street, after drinking, Purcell remarked to his companion, "I was a Confederate soldier." In reply, Burns said, "And I was a Federal soldier," turning as he made the remark an I shooting Purcell in the face. The ball took effect under the left cheek bone ranging downward. It was not known when our informant left whether it passed into the shoulder or was arrested in his mouth and swallowed. Nor could we learn whether the injury was dangerous or otherwise.

FOREIGN TRADE.

Exports and Imports of the United States.

The fact that our imports have exceeded very considerably the amount of our exports during the past few years has been considered as an unfavorable condition of the foreign trade, as the balance due to foreign countries must necessarily be made up by an export of specie or of bonds and securities. It is, therefore, expected with much satisfaction that our large crops of this year both of cereals and cotton will enable the country to export much more heavily than last season, and will place us in a much better condition as to foreign balances.

The actual exports and imports of merchandise and exports of specie at New York have been as follows from January 1st to this date in the present and three previous years:

	Imports.	Exports of Imports.	Excess Export of Specie.
1865...	$182,795,523	$120,294,772	$65,988,947
1867...	183,880,305	135,772,340	52,303,965
1866...	221,854,797	143,286,217	78,590,080
1865...	165,986,829	114,9?8,894	18,927,995
			21,727,792

It is interesting to notice the specie exports in connection with the excess of the amount of imports over exports, as the value of specie shipped approximates that excess, and when the discrepancy is considerable, as in 1866 and 1867 we know that the export of government and other securities to foreign countries were large.

The amount of exports from New York from January 1 to this date is about 120 millions against 133 millions in 1867, which were distributed to the foreign markets as follows:

To	1868. Since Jan. 1.	1867. Since Jan 1.

GEN. THOS. C. HINDMAN.

Full and Correct Report of his Assassination.

From the Helena (Ark.) Clarion of Thursday.]

We are called upon to-day to chronicle one of the most tragical events which has ever cast its shadow over this community. Our distinguished fellow-citizen, Gen. Thomas C. Hindman, has been suddenly laid low by the hand of an assassin. His life was taken last Sunday night at half past nine o'clock, as he sat quietly in his room surrounded by his family, under circumstances of the most horrible character. He was shot with an army musket, through the east window of the southeast room of his dwelling house, sitting by the fireside smoking. His left hand, in which he held his pipe, was torn away, and two balls passed through his neck, severing the windpipe and doing other injuries which produced copious internal bleeding. The muzzle of the musket, from the powder burn on the window blind, was not exceeding eight feet from where he was sitting, and but for the accidental position of his hand near his chin, which diverted the aim of the shot, it would have almost blown his head from his shoulders.

The boldness of the perpetrator of this bloody deed is amazing. It was a clear, moonlit night. A person could have been seen and almost recognized a hundred yards off. From whatever direction the two fiends may have approached, they retreated after the commission of the crime, (as indicated by their tracks), toward the road or street in front of the residence, where persons were apt to be passing at all hours. The tracks show two persons present, one of whom, from appearances was a white man; but no clue has as yet been found, fixing suspicion upon any particular individuals. It is thought that political malice was the cause and that a hired villain struck the blow. He survived about eight hours, during which he conversed calmly in relation to business matters; spoke with touching beauty and affection of his wife and the four little children who have been so inhumanly bereaved. He was conscious of his fate, rational to the end—which he met with sublime courage and resignation.

Gen. Hindman was the great leader of the Democracy of the State, and was dealing such heavy blows against Radicalism, as to mark him as its most formidable opponent. But whatever the motives which instigated this foul and dastardly deed, the state of the public mind and the violence done and threatened, lead to the belief that he has fallen a victim to the vindictive party antagonism which menaces the peace of the country.

We shall not in this connection speak of the life and character of the deceased. Our grief is too deep to attempt the eulogium appropriate to the memory of this great man. His death is a public calamity. No words can add to his fame, or increase the public conviction of the irreparable loss the State has sustained. We drape our columns with mourning, and bow in silence and sorrow to the dreadful stroke which has removed from our midst one who was a hero in peace or war—

"A combination, and a form, indeed,
Where every God did seem to set his seal,
To give the world assurance of a man."

At some other time when we feel more adequate to the task, we shall endeavor to pay such tribute to his memory as the splendor of his talents, and the nationality of his reputation, evoke from every heart.

ARKANSAS.

Outrages in Fulton County.

BATESVILLE, ARK., October 1.—Returning citizens report that the sheriff of Fulton county arrested five men, charged with Mason's murder, and turned them over to Monk, commanding ninety Missourians. Saturday, at 4 p.m., Dow Bryant, one of the prisoners, after being hung three times, implicated sixteen men, and was turned loose. Monday Judge Baxter issued a writ of habeas corpus for the others. Monk refused to obey at first. Afterwards he turned over three men, and at ten o'clock at night the remaining one, Uriah Bush, to the duputy sheriff, who started with him to Salem. Monk afterwards pursued, killed Bush, whose body was buried by citizens in adjoining counties, who were in pursuit of Monk, who, having committed depredations as in time of war, escaped to Missouri.

The examining court acquitted all yet tried. It is believed by some that the report of Bryant's confession is fabricated, and that he also was murdered by Monk.

IT is believed that the ravisher and murderer of the little girl, Mary Mohrman, at Philadelphia, about whose identity there has hitherto been so much mystery, has at last been discovered. A man was recently arrested in that city, whom one of the witnesses positively identifies as the person whom he saw with the unfortunate child on the evening of her disappearance.

"THE COCK" inn in London, on which Tennyson wrote his "Will Waterproof," and wherein Johnson and Goldsmith drank before him, is condemned to demolition to make room for the new law courts.

HIRAM FULLER, the American editor of the London Cosmopolitan, has appeared in court in forma pauperis, and asked to be discharged. His creditors objected, and he was remanded to prison.

THE ROMANCE OF CRIME.

The End of a Series of Horrible Crimes.

Verification of the Old Adage "Murder Will Out."

At the recent term of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Ohio, Chauncey L. Treadwell, as administrator of the estate of William W. Treadwell, deceased, recovered of Samuel Hester a verdict for $38,514 99.

Wm. W. Treadwell, several years ago, was a scholar at the famous Oberlin school, in Ohio. He there fell deeply in love with Miss Hester, a daughter of Samuel Hester, from Huron county, in the same State. In due time they were married, and young Treadwell succeeded his father in a lucrative banking business at Hudson, in Michigan. This was in the year 1863.

About Christmas that year he went with his wife on a visit to her father's, in Huron county, and remained there until the holidays were over. After his return from this visit he commenced borrowing money in various quarters, principally of banks in Cleveland, Detroit, Adrian, Chicago, and Hillsdale. On the 20th of January, 1864, he had accumulated in his bank over $60,000. On the night of that day he ran away, taking with him all this amount of money, in a black satchel.

Nothing more was heard of him until the 8th day of the following month, February, when he appeared, under an assumed name, at a hotel in Mansfield, Ohio, where he was met and recognized by an old friend, a son of the man at whose house he had boarded while at school at Oberlin. This man's name was Palmer. Treadwell was very confidential with him, and told him that he had about $60,000 in his possession, and that he was going to return to Hudson and pay his debts.

Two days later Treadwell's wife and her father, Samuel Hester, joined him at Mansfield; and on the very next morning Treadwell and his wife were arrested. Their baggage—so much of it as could be found, for the black satchel was missing—was searched, but no money was found.

The day after his arrest Treadwell was taken to Michigan, where he was subsequently tried for obtaining money by false pretences, convicted and sentenced. His conviction took place July 1st, and during that day his wife contrived privately to hand him $2600. He was remanded to jail, and on the night of the same day he broke out, in company with a notorious horse thief named Cowell, who was confined in the same cell with him. Treadwell had with him a large amount of money and a gold watch, hidden in his stockings. Cowell knew about these things, as he had helped Treadwell to secrete them.

They traveled together in a southerly direction until the 4th day of July, when they were in Henry county, Ohio. On that day Cowell, the horse-thief, murdered Treadwell in the woods, nearly two miles from any house, and after robbing his body of his money and watch, secreted it and decamped.

Not long afterwards a laboring man, who had been at work in these woods, was walking along through them, when he happened to step on a dry stick which snapped with quite a loud report. At this noise up flew a flock of crows, at a little distance. Attracted by curiosity to know what they were feeding on, the man went to the spot from which they flew, and to his horror found the dead body of a man. This proved to be the remains of the banker Treadwell.

Cowell, the thief and murderer, sold Treadwell's watch for $50 in Cleveland, where it was traced out by a Captain of Police. Other circumstantial evidence tending to fasten the guilt of the murder upon Cowell was discovered. He was arrested, and in May, 1865, was tried and convicted, and in September following was executed. He acknowledged his guilt on the scaffold. So much for the foolish and guilty banker, and his more foolish and guilty murderer.

Now for the black satchel which contained the money, and its contents, which were the root of so much evil.

At the time of the arrest of Treadwell and his wife at Mansfield, her father, Samuel Hester, made off with the satchel. He was first seen twenty miles from Mansfield, his boots wet and muddy, and himself tired out with the weight of the satchel which he had been carrying. He stopped at the house of a man named Samuel Loughlin, where he ate supper and changed his socks. After supper he hired Loughlin's two sons to carry him a piece on the road—first as far as Greenfield, and then two miles beyond.

Somehow in the perpetration of crime everything seems to work wrong. Hester considered it imprudent to travel under his own proper name; he was afraid to do it; so he assumed another name. He was very unfortunate in the selection which he made. He took the name of a notorious thief who had broken jail at Mansfield, and for whose recapture a reward of $50 had been advertised. This circumstance resulted in very serious trouble to him. Loughlin, at whose house he had stopped under the assumed name of this thief, came across Hester a second time at Centreville, and honestly believing him to be, not the thief he was, but the thief he passed himself off for, determined to have him arrested. He proceeded to Hester's house with a posse of men for that purpose, but Hester came out with a revolver and drove them away. Loughlin then telegraphed to Mansfield for the Sheriff, who came with a Deputy, but on seeing Hester they pronounced him not to be the genuine thief who had broke jail.

Not long after this a washwoman, having some washing to do for Mrs. Hester, went to her residence, and in looking about the house for that lady, suddenly opened the door of her bedroom, and there surprised a party "counting out their money." This party consisted of three persons—Samuel Hester, his wife and their daughter, Mrs. Treadwell. There was a very large quantity of bank notes. Mrs. Treadwell had some in her hands, and others were scattered over the bed and in Hester's lap.

It was considered to be conclusively proved on the recent trial that the man who stopped at Loughlin's with the black satchel, and Samuel Hester, were one and the same; although Hester himself and a son of his swore positively to the contrary.

The suit was brought by the administrator of the murdered Treadwell to recover the money for numerous creditors who had been defrauded; and, as already stated, was successful.

THE NEWS.

S. R. Case, Superintendent of Public Education of Placer county, Cal., was cowhided a few days since by one O. P. Fitzgerald.

They are to have Brownlow's militia in Warren county in this State. The Rads have petitioned for it.

The Radicals of Hardin county, this State, have had a K. K. K. sensation. Nobody killed, but a big scare. The militia is to be petitioned for.

William P. Caldwell, Esq , is to be the candidate for Congress in the Seventh District of this State. So says "many voters" of Dyersburg.

The Grand Army of the Republic is in Mass Convention at Philadelphia just now and have, for the time being, turned the Quaker City into a perfect pandemonium.

Mr. William H. Etter, of the Washington (Ark.) Telegraph, in the number of Wednesday, announces his withdrawal from the press in a feeling and elegant valedictory.

Hon. Ed. Cooper, one of our Electors, is making the tour of East Tennessee. He spoke at Knoxville on Friday last, and to a large audience. We have good accounts of him wherever he has spoken. He is working hard, and is sanguine.

Col. J. W. Wesson has published a call to the planters of the State of Mississippi, to meet in Jackson on the 20th inst., for the purpose of forming an Agricultural Association. The Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad will carry passengers for half-fare on the occasion.

The Athens (Tenn.) Republican says: We are gratified to learn that the free schools are being and have been started all over the county. The directory of this district (seventh) have secured the services of Dr. John E. Pyott, of Rhea county, for the school at Forrest Hill Academy, which commenced the first Monday in October.

The intelligence received in official quarters indicates that the Indian war is be coming more formidable than was anticipated by the military commanders some days ago, and a larger body of troops than is now under the control of Gen. Sherman will doubtless be required to establish peace and protect the citizens in the Western Territories.

Thursday was a gala day with the Democracy of Selma, Ala. A large procession, the finest ever seen there, and speaking by such men as ex-Govs Watts and Winston, and Gen. Clanton. At night there was a grand torch-light procession and illumination, the effects of which are spoken of by the Times and Messenger in enthusiastic terms.

The Kingsbury East Tennessean says: Farmers living near the water courses in this county sustained considerable loss by the recent high water. All bottom land was pretty much overflown, and the corn more or less injured. The Clinch rose fifteen feet above low water mark, being higher, we believe, than it has been since the memerable flood of March 1867.

The "Grecian bend" seems to have taken New York by storm. All along Broadway and down Nassau street the peddlers offer nothing else than the silhouettes of this female fashionable folly. One of the most comical of these cards represents the successive transformations of a camel into a Saratoga belle afflicted with the bend (—), the camel's hump becoming gradually modified into the paniers.

The Lincoln County (Tenn.) News says: We understand that a movement is on foot in our town for the erection of a Catholic church Our Irish citizens are fast becoming the bone and sinue of the country, and we would heartily welcome more of them in our midst. As laborers, and as citizens they should be encouraged and welcomed by all sensible people. "Patrick" with his stalwart arm has ever been a devoted friend of Republican liberty, and his ready wit the admiration of all people. Welcome, Sons of Erin.

The Alabama Legislature has passed the registration act, and it awaits the signature of the Governor, who was expected to return from Washington on Sunday. It is thought the bill has been delayed so long that the registers will not complete their work in time for the Presidential election. The feeling is quite strong with the Republican members to cast the vote of the State by the Legislature. The Speaker of the House took the floor in advocacy of it.

The Arkansas (Little Rock) Gazette of the 3d instant, publishes the following:

ROOMS DEM. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
LITTLE ROCK, October 1, 1868.

Hon. Jordan E. Cravens having resigned the position of candidate for Presidential Elector on the Democratic ticket, on account of disqualification, in accordance with the suggestion of the Listless Convention, W. D. Jacoway, of Yell county, is hereby announced to fill the vacancy. ROBT. A. HOWARD, Chm'n.
JOHN M. HARRELL, Secretary.

In the Georgia House, on the 1st, the bill to prevent free persons of color from being elected to office was passed. The bill to compel hotelkeepers to provide equal accommodations for whites and blacks was lost. The act to prescribe an oath to be administered to voters for the election of President of the United States, Governor, and other State officers, was passed. Mr. Bryant, Republican, is charged with holding office under the United States, thereby disqualifying him from holding a seat in the House, and a resolution was passed appointing a committee to investigate the matter.

The Alexandria (Va.) Commercial Advertiser of Friday says: The State Courts gained yesterday a wonderful triumph over the attempt made by Judge Underwood to take from their jurisdiction the whole subject of the matters in controversy in relation to the Washington and Alexandria railroad. The Deputy Sheriff of this county, armed with the precept of the court, commanding him to cause the Alexandria and Washington railroad company (J. S. French, President), to have their possession of a certain railroad in the county of Alexandria, State of Virginia, now occupied by the Alexandria, Washington and Georgetown railroad company. The Deputy Sheriff went down accompanied by Mr James S French, who had received the possession of the road as the writ directed. But upon a delivery of a copy of the writ to the agents of the company, they paid no more attention to the order of Judge Thomas than if it had been waste paper. The trains ran as usual on time.

A. H Barber, from Lambertville, N. J., committed suicide at the Mansion House hotel, Baltimore, on Thursday last. Deceased was for six or seven years, up to 1857, Professor of Ethics in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, but resigned that position because of deafness. Again last January the same position was offered him and he accepted, but being of a very sensitive nature, he found that he could not do justice to the pupils and again resigned. He then returned to his home in New Jersey, and in July was taken by his family to Minnesota, where it was hoped his shattered health might be improved, but after remaining a short time he returned again to his home. Early in September Mr. Thomas Seabrook, contractor on the Baltimore and Potomac railroad, offered him a position as clerk, which he accepted, and came to this city on the 15th ult. and took a room at the Marion House hotel. Since his arrival in Baltimore he has appeared very much depressed, and frequently spoke of his fear that he would not be able to give satisfaction to his employer. He was a strict member of the Presbyterian Church, and was highly spoken of by those who knew him.

THE SPANISH REVOLUTION.

The Spanish revolution, decidedly the most interesting political movement of 1868, and likely to prove the first step in the regeneration of the Spanish race, is an accomplished fact. ESPARTERO has been called to the head of the Junta, or Provisional Government, and the last of the Bourbons is a fugitive from her Kingdom. The CONCHAS, who stood by ISABELLA to the last, have given in their adhesion to the new government, and throughout Spain people and nobles are a unit. There is some talk of the Duke DE MONTPENSIER, son of the late LOUIS PHILLIPE, and who married a sister of ISABELLA's, being called to the throne, but as the people have pronounced against the Bourbon family, as well as against its last reigning representative, they are not likely to tolerate even a weak dilution of the stock in the person of an Orleanist. From what we can learn by meagre telegrams, the Spanish people are thoroughly aroused, mean to make a complete governmental reform, and put themselves in line with United Italy and United Germany, thus hoping to recover an eolat their fathers lost in the enervation induced by the riches of a bloody and brutal conquest.

THE BLAIRS ON THE CANVASS.

From the Washington Evening Express of Thursday last we reproduce the following paragraphs:

Gen. Frank P. Blair left this city last evening, at half-past eight o'clock, after spending the day with his father's family, at Silver Spring. Before leaving he had an interview with President Johnson. At the depot, on the evening of his departure, he was greeted by a number of his friends, who would not let the opportunity pass without extending him the hand of kindness, and expressing their earnest wishes for his success in the political fight now going on. The General was in excellent health. In our conversation with him he expressed no doubt whatever about the result of the elections, not only in October, but in November. No man has a better right to know than himself. He has been in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, is fresh from among the people, with whom he has talked, as also with the leading men of our party in those States, and everything he saw and heard inspires him with the fullest confidence in the election of our national ticket. This statement of Gen. Blair fully corroborates all that we have said recently on this subject in these columns, which, as we stated, was based upon the best information from all quarters of the country. Gen. Blair will speak at Bedford, Penn., to-morrow. His next appointment is at Manilla, Ohio, then at Cincinnati, and afterwards in Indiana on election day, on the 13th of October. After that he will make a canvass of Missouri. Of the result in that State (and who knows better about it than himself?) he does not entertain even the shadow of a doubt. His vote will be cast for Seymour and Blair certain!

GOOD NEWS FROM PENNSYLVANIA.

Hon. Montgomery Blair writes a most enthusiastic letter as to the prospect in the Keystone state. Our friends are confident and earnestly at work. No doubt exists that we shall achieve a brilliant victory. Senator Doolittle is on the war-path, and so are ex-Governors Bigler and Johnson, and Senator Cowan. J. S. Fellows, of Arkansas, justly styled "the great Southern orator," is also in the interest of his people. Pendleton comes out October 5th, at Pittsburg, and Gen. McCandless, Dr. Julius Korn (German), Helster Clymer, E. O. Perrin, Stephen J. Meany, Richard Vaux, D. A. Ogden, E. K. Apgar, and many others.

COL. JOHN S. KERR.

This gentleman, so well known to the Democracy of this city, will speak at the rooms of the Central Club, Stillman Hall, corner of Madison and Second streets, on Wednesday night, on which occasion we hope there will be a handsome and complimentary turnout of the members of our party.

In another part of our paper we publish a list of appointments, which Col. KERR will fill before the day of election. He goes out to the people of the district a comparative stranger, but with indorsements from our best men of which any gentleman may feel proud. He will prove himself effective and practical, and eminently conservative. As a true-blue Democrat, well posted and thorough, we ask for him at the hands of the Democracy of the Eighth District, a warm reception, such as Tennesseans know how to give.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

FROM IUKA, MISS.

Cultivation of the Scuppernong Grape.

IUKA, MISS., October 2, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Some ten days ago I visited a Scuppernong Grapevine, three miles South of Iuka Springs, owned by a Mr. Adams, who raised it from a seed sent him from North Carolina about ten years ago. It was neglected during the war, suffered to run at random on the ground, was not elevated by scaffolding, but two years since it had a very heavy crop of large, fine, delicious black grapes, round as marbles, and the vine was of from three to twelve. The vine covered a space of at least 1000 square feet, and needed more extensive scaffolding. The clusters hung low on all sides, in fine profusion, enchanting the lover of the grape. The sight was truly magnificent. The quantity on the vine at the time was variously estimated from ten to fifteen bushels, notwithstanding there had been quantities consumed by the family and visiting friends to that time. I am confident there would have been grapes enough to make a barrel of wine. What is also remarkable, there was not a rotten or mildewed grape anywhere on the vine, and never had been. Indeed, at another vineyard thirty miles from here, I found grapes completely covered with dirt, more than two months previously, in the process of layering, which were as sound as if they had been on the vine, exposed to the sun and air. This is the only grape that never rots, never mildews, and never fails to bear large and regular crops of grapes—in some instances as high as one hundred bushels in one season on a single vine. A widow lady in North Carolina made ten barrels of wine from a vineyard of less than half an acre, when only seven years old. It requires no pruning, will live a hundred years, spreading annually from five to ten feet in all directions. I have one only a year old, that has grown seventeen feet the present year. They bear the third year—sometimes when only one year old.

IUKA.

FROM DRESDEN, TENN.

The People of Weakley—The Crops—Hon. Em. Etheridge—Contraband Tobacco and Whisky Trade—Rawlins (Republican) without an Opponent—Fast Horses—Northwestern Railroad—Corruption—A Carpet-bagger on the Hunt for an Office—Bishop Quintard vs. Rev. J. W. Rogers.

DRESDEN, TENN., October 1, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

It has occurred to me that a brief line from this pleasant town may not prove uninteresting to the numerous friends of the APPEAL. This is among the ancient places of this Commonwealth, and contains about 1,00 inhabitants. Among them are some of the most solid and substantial people of West Tennessee. The people of Weakley are in a good condition. They own their own lands, have made good crops, have a plenty to eat, and money to spare.

The crops in this section are good. The corn is splendid, and if the remainder of the month shall be dry, the cotton will come out finely and prove a large crop. The tobacco crop is first rate; in fact, could scarcely be better. much of the dark leaf, so peculiar to this section, is generally shipped to New Orleans for French consumption.

This, as you are aware, is the residence of Hon. Emerson Etheridge, the great Union radical Gladiator, who has hosts of friends in Weakley and the surrounding counties. They view his canvass abroad with no little interest and pride. He has lately turned his attention to farming, having bought some four hundred acres of land adjoining his former lands on the outskirts of the town. These lands he has fenced in, and his crop prospects are regarded as fair as those of his neighbors. He has made but one speech at Dresden this year, but fortunately his services are not needed here as much as elsewhere.

There is said to be much contraband trading in tobacco along the State Line Road between Kentucky and Tennessee. These contraband traders used to make a straight line for the Eighth District, but they have been so frequently picked up by Collectors Frank Travis at Paris and John A. Gilchrist of this place, that they have been forced for safety to change their base.

It is reported here that there are no less than forty illicit distilleries in the Eighth Congressional District. Travis and Gilchrist and their assistants, have followed up the illicit whiskymakers so fiercely in this District, that there are but two of them now in existence in all the Seventh Congressional District, and even these were lately rummaged out of Madison county into Henderson. Whenever the illicit distillers are hard pressed in one District, they move over the line into another. In this way most of our illicit distillers in this have gone over to the Eighth District. There are said to be no less than eight illicit distillers in the neighborhood of Bell's Station, on the Memphis and Ohio Railroad, and one of them manufactures no less than fifty gallons per day. All these have been forced by Travis out of Gibson, so they settled across the line in Haywood county.

Hon. Isaac H. Hawkins is the regular Republican candidate for Congress in this District. He was a conservative Republican, and opposed impeachment. He is thus far without opposition, though W. P. Caldwell, Esq., of this place, is spoken of as his opponent. I believe, however, that Caldwell will not run, as the prospect of success is not very good.

There are several of our countrymen that have a weakness for fine horses. Prominent among these is Dave Shaver, who recently bought Dr. Arrington's fine horse, so well known around Jackson, for which he paid the moderate sum of $650. A day after, he took him to the Fulton fair, and with him obtained the prize for the best buggy horse.

The Northwestern road is again in operation, and to the relief of our people, affording us an opportunity for daily communication with the outside world. This new company are repairing the road, and it is reported will soon reduce the freight tariff so considerably as to give us a market at Memphis as well as Hickman for all our products. Already there has been ready for sale and shipped fruit, by runners for Nashville, at from 8½ to 12½ cents per pound. There is much complaint against in an corrupt manner in which the affairs of this Northwestern company have been managed, and the impression is general that some of the managers must have made corruption money.

One of the most impudent assumptions we have lately heard of is the attempt of one Stacey, a treasury agent, who was sent out to investigate the Randall bonded warehouse burning, to get the appointment of "supervisor" under the new law for district of Tennessee. Stacey is a native and resident of New York, and he is so utterly bankrupt at home that he dare not attempt to get such an office from his own State, but he comes out to Tennessee in the government service, and goes about from point to point begging the internal revenue officers to give him their indorsement. It is to be hoped that we shall be spared this last infliction. The people of this section prefer Tennesseans for office to the cat-pet baggers from the North.

Rev. Mr. Rogers may rest assured that he will not have it all his way in the matter of the controversy about church rites. The friends of Bishop Quintard—and their name is legion—assert that Mr. Rogers was not a delegate to the Pan Anglican Conference in Europe—that no one but bishops were admitted to that conference—and that if Rev. Mr. Rogers had been a bishop he would not have been admitted. But they say that Mr. Rogers was not only not in the conference, but he was not even in England when it was held, but on the contrary, that he was over in Paris. They also deny that Bishop Quintard ever used a professional cross in addressing him on all occasions, and that he had no such cross voted to him by the Magdalene church. They also deny that Bishop Quintard ever preached or lectured in the Magdalene church on Ritualism at all, as was asserted or intimated in Rev. Mr. Rogers' card, but on the contrary that his discourse in the morning was an old sermon on the text, "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and unto God the things that are God's," while at the evening service, he simply lectured on confirmation. They also deny that Rev. Mr. Rogers ever made any request for the use of a professional cross in his card. They say the English and American church are distinct, but that nevertheless Bishop Quintard was requested, and did perform, while in England, every act which appertains to the Bishop's office—that he was recognized, both personally and ecclesiastically, while in England, in every possible manner that could be conceived of, and that wherever he preached thousands flocked to see and hear an American Bishop. In short, they give a very different statement of the whole matter from material facts alleged by Rev. Mr. Rogers in his card in the Memphis papers of last Sunday, and it is not surprising, they say, if Rev. Mr. Rogers should be required to apologise for his versions of the course of the Bishop in regard to the matters treated of in his card already referred to.

Yours,
COSMOPOLITE.

FROM CARROLLTON, MISS.

The Crops—How Much Depends on the Election of Seymour and Blair—The Kansas Mills.

CARROLLTON, Miss., Oct. 1, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

During my sojourn in this part of the country, I think it proper to give you a few items relative to the situation of affairs here. I have had an opportunity of examining the crops, and finding that the boll and army worm have done much damage in some localities, while in others it is not half so bad. But the heavy rains of last month have proven a flushing stroke, so that upon the whole the cotton crop will be short. In walking over fields, one can form a better idea than riding along on the cars or horseback. In many localities one can see the stalks apparently heavily loaded, but on jerking ten feet farther in the fields you find only from two to four bolls upon a stalk.

The corn crop may be said to be good. Planters generally will make sufficient to do them in their planting operations another year, and if Seymour is elected, everything will go on well, and a fresh spirit will take hold of the people generally. But if grant is elected many good citizens who are able to leave here, will go, and are looking to California as being the best place to emigrate to.

I have had occasion to visit the Mahanah Mills, situated one mile south of Carrollton and thirteen miles west of Winona, a station on the Mississippi Central railroad, and fifteen miles from Greenwood, a small village situated on the Yazoo river. These mills, if money was plenty here, would be of incalculable benefit to many of the poor people of the State. Outbuildings and machinery I am able to give you the following description:

The main factory building and pickery house is of brick and covered with tin. The first building is two and a-half stories high, one hundred and thirty-eight feet by three hundred and twenty feet long, all the door and window sills of iron, eleven doors and two hundred and twenty-one windows. The upper story is supported by two hundred and seventy-three plank posts with brick and iron supports at the bare. Each room covers an area of one and a quarter acres, and are said to be the largest rooms for the purpose in the United States. The pickery house is situated thirty-six feet from the main building, is two stories high, thirty-five feet wide, by seventy feet long, and has three doors and twenty-two windows. Two of Corliss' patent engines, of ninety horse power each, capable of driving all the machinery that can be put in the factory, viz: five hundred looms and eighteen thousand spindles—with the necessary machinery to run these. The mills will be running in a few weeks fifteen running machines, eighteen hundred spindles and seventy-two looms. If they had the capital to fill up, the owners would make it one of the best institutions in the South. They have already built eighteen double cottage houses for the operatives, and of these they will require five hundred when they get filled up with machinery.

Yours,
A. B. C.

FROM ARKANSAS.

The Arkansas River Country—The Crops—The Canvass—Negro Democrats—Peace.

ARKANSAS RIVER, Sept. 25, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Having seen much of the country lying on the Arkansas river between Little Rock and the mouth, I give you the result of my observations for the benefit of your readers generally and those interested in the cotton crop particularly. The southeastern portion of Arkansas, before the war, ranked first as a cotton-producing section. Although but a comparatively small portion of the native wilderness had been subdued by the energetic planter, the soil was so rich and the climate so well adapted to the production of the princely staple, that already the number of bales raised in this valley had a material effect in the sum total of the annual production of the South. In fact the Arkansas river country was pointed to by all informed in such matters, to be the best cotton country in the South. Here was a favorite field for investment for the large slave owners of Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi. Consequently lands were enormously high. Owing to causes which were common to the whole South and which are only to well understood by her unfortunate people, but little cotton has been raised during the past four years. But employers and laborers, taught by experience the necessity of a more economical system and closer labor; and besides the area planted in cotton being much smaller, it was thought that this year would be the commencement of an era of prosperity. Such, indeed, appeared the prospect one month ago. But alas

"The best-laid schemes of mice and men
Gang aft agley."

The almost continuous rains of the past four weeks have played havoc with the crop. It is impossible to calculate the damage. The stalk has grown to a height so enormous as to unable to bear the crop, it has fallen down in such proportion as to materially cut short the yield. Then the rot has been beyond precedent and when we add to this the loss that has occurred by the shedding of squares and young bolls, and that may occur by an early frost, we can have some faint idea of the fatal effects of the rain. It is now nearly October, and the majority of planters have not even commenced gathering the crop. The political excitement on the canvass has already interfered with the regularity of the labor, and will increase as the election draws near. If the cotton-bagger is as successful as heretofore in sowing the seeds of trouble, we may as well calculate on no crop. It is my honest conviction that the failure of the cotton crop last year on this river, was to be attributed, in a great degree, to the Loyal League. But I have hope that the colored people are coming to their senses, and have begun to find out their true friends. The most sensible and industrious amongst them, who desire peace and quiet, have joined the Democratic party, and we hope that the days of the car, et-baggers are numbered. We feel here that next November we will be called upon to make a last capital effort to save the liberties of the country from the grasp of the political cabal at Washington, who are imbecoding so many of our fellow-countrymen in the North. We feel confident that if the mass of the people North could be convinced of the honesty of our desire for peace, they would second our efforts in the November election, and put down that infamous faction which has so long abused the great trust confided to them. Let us have peace, law and order, with the opportunity of storing, in some measure, the administration of justice and the general business of the country. If we can have a fair election here in November, under the existing law of the state, we expect to give the same error of the State of Arkansas to the general movement which has been going on amongst the whole people of the United States. Let us hope the good sense of the people will triumph, and the good old times return once more, when equality of representation will be the acknowledged right of all the States, and the arm of the civil power will be sufficient to carry on the business of Government.

The resolutions close by indorsing Mr. Dana

The business houses along the route of the procession were profusely decorated with flags, Chinese lanters, etc. Among the distinguished speakers present are Geo. H. Pendleton, Hunter Clymer, Edgar Cloman, and others. The torch-light procession to-night was a grand affair. The streets along the line of the procession were thronged with people, and many buildings are brilliantly illuminated.

John Allen held a prayer meeting on his own account, in his dance house on Water street, to-day.

The Catholic Synod has promulgated the degree of the Plenary Council at Baltimore, urging the immediate establishment of schools for colored children in the Southern States, and also the establishment of orphanages, as there is strong reason to apprehend a large increase of orphan colored children.

The dance house, No. 316 Water street, has been leased by J. M. Ward, City Missionary, and will be consecrated to religious purposes at noon to-day. It is just above John Allen's, and contains one of the largest halls in that part of the city.

Maj.-Gen. Rosecrans passed through the city on yesterday, on his way to Mexico.

The Empire China Works, in Brooklyn, were damaged to the amount of $4000 yesterday, by fire.

The Trades' Union delegates were in session yesterday evening, discussing the eight hour movement. A committee of two from each ward, to represent the labor interest, was appointed, with instructions to support such candidates for the Assembly as will pledge themselves to secure a repeal of the conspiracy laws, and to sustain the eight hour movement.

A Washington dispatch states that next week there will be quite a large exodus of Department clerks from this city on their way to their respective States to avail themselves of one of the most important privileges of freemen. On the 13th inst. the number of public officials, clerks and Government employees that will go to Philadelphia, Ohio and Indiana to vote, are estimated at nearly one thousand, more than half of whom are Pennsylvanians. Certain politicians are said to have been here for more than two weeks past, counting the names of all these men claiming residence in those States, and who voted in the elections here, with a view of challenging their votes in those States.

Another dispatch says the Spanish Legation has received no intimation from the new government of Spain, and consequently has no authority to act in its behalf. It is not recognized by this government as representing any power competent to send ministers to Washington, and will not be until it receives its credentials from the Junta at Madrid. It is probable that the delegation will receive dispatches from Madrid within a few days, that some—if not all—the members may be withdrawn. It is also reported that the late Queen Isabella of Spain has recently made heavy investments in this country, and may possibly take refuge here.

The Herald's Paris letter says that the Chassepot gun is a complete failure, and one of the most dangerous weapons ever supplied to an army, and the Emperor, I have reason to believe, is in full accord with the ordnance officers, and has determined to change the arm for a better one, and with that view a new series of experiments have been instituted, to ascertain whether the arm can be so altered as to become efficient and praiseworthy. Two hundred and three systems of alterations have been tried, and it is probable that one—an American plan—will be adopted, and with a radical change in the ammunition, the Emperor being satisfied that paper or silk cartridges are not suitable for breech-loading arms, and he is determined to adopt a metal cartridge closely resembling that in use by the United States. And as this radical change of small arms will require some time, peace may be considered tolerably secure until it is effected, unless some other nations make war. It will require eight months for the French to alter their arms, and you need not look for war before next summer.

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, October 5.—Considerable damage has occurred along the lake and in the rear part of the city, but the extent cannot yet be ascertained. The storm abated on Sunday night, and the water is slowly receding from the submerged districts. All of the over-due steamers, for whose safety fears were entertained yesterday, are safe, and no marine disasters are reported as yet, or loss of life by the deluge.

Ed Ware, general ticket agent of the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad, who shot himself on Saturday morning, died last night.

G. W. McCranor, editor of the Ouachita Telegraph, has been nominated for Congress, by the Democrats of the Fifth District, which completes the list.

Accounts have been received of trouble between the whites and negroes in St. Landry's Parish on the 27th and 28th ult. They are greatly conflicting as to the extent of the trouble and the number of casualties. Considerable ill-feeling, growing out of politics, has existed there for some time, but on the 19th ult., a conference was held between the leaders of both parties, which resulted in an agreement satisfactory to all parties. On the 27th, however, a personal difficulty occurred between two white men, one a prominent Radical politician. Distorted accounts of which brought the negroes out under arms, and who flocked to the town of Opelousas and fired into a squad of whites, killing one and wounding four. It is reported that two negroes were also killed. The local authorities then ordered the disarming of the negroes, which was done and order restored. A report from responsible authority states that the troops were not the aggressors in the whole affair, except so far as it became necessary to use force in disarming the negroes on the neighboring plantations. On account of this affair published in this evening's Republican, the word "rebel" occurs seven times in three-quarters of a column. Its account also states that the agent of the Freedman's Bureau fraternizes with, and assists the "rebels" in their unlawful depredations.

HORSE STOLEN.—On last Tuesday night, about 11 o'clock, from my lot, my riding HORSE. I followed him as far as Holly Springs and Lafayette. The thief offered him for sale in both the livery stables at Holly Springs. I am inclined to think he will make for the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. Said horse is a large bay, 15¾ hands high, very broad across the hips, a little larger on the left hip than the right, left hind foot white, broad flat forehead, a short body for a horse of his size; on the left shoulder is a brand M, and J. P. under it, and a J. P. on the left hip; saddle and harness marks around his girth, a scar on one of his ankles, I don't recollect which; mane a little worn by collar. I will give Fifty Dollars for the recovery of the horse or any information so that I will get him again, or One Hundred Dollars for the thief and horse.

CAPT. D. L. GILLESPIE has bought and refitted up in elegant style the saloon known as "The Office," under Malloy's Bank, corner of Madison and Front streets. Nothing but the best of the old vintage prepared in his establishment. He hopes to see his old friends. oct6-2t

A GOOD CHANCE TO ADVERTISE.—Mr. E. N. Poe is in the city soliciting advertisements for that staunch and able journal of which he is senior proprietor, the Des Arc Citizen. The Citizen has a good circulation on White and Arkansas rivers—the trade for which our merchants should exhaust every means to secure.

WASH WALKER and George Cooper, the two negroes charged with stealing the furniture of D. Frank, were arrested and locked up in the Second District stationhouse on Sunday. That night Walker succeeded in making his escape, and yesterday morning, on bringing Cooper before 'Squire Griffith, nothing could be proved against him and he was discharged.

PLANTERS are recommended, if they would consult their own interests, to deal with Messrs. They give prompt attention to all matters of business intrusted to them. All consignments made to them are covered, unless otherwise so ordered, with an open policy.

FORSTER KEALHOFER & Co.—The card of this prominent Grocery and Commission house will be found in a conspicuous place in our columns to-day. They occupy a very large trade with the interior in do a very large trade with the interior in the way of plantation supplies, and their business is steadily increasing. Each member of the firm combines in himself all the qualities requisite to make energetic and thorough going business men, and as such we commend them to our readers.

THE SOUTHERN FARMER for October is before us, thanks to its publisher. The contents are of the varied character usual to this excellent agricultural paper, for which we ask the patronage of the people in the surrounding States. The more extended the patronage accorded the proprietors and editors of the Farmer the more thorough they will make the work, until at last it will come to be regarded the first publication of the sort in the country. To make it that is the aim of its conductors.

THE meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Arkansas has been postponed from the first to the third Monday in November. Likewise, the business of the Grand Chapter will be laid over until Thursday, and of the Grand Council until Saturday, before the said third Monday. The above changes have been made in order that the representatives of the various subordinate Lodges, Chapters and Councils may be in attendance at the same time the State Fair opens at Little Rock.

$100 00 reward for the detection and conviction of the prowling midnight assassin who is engaged in mutilating and otherwise destroying the sign boards, "Texas Tonic Syrup Cures Chills and Fever." This plunderer is, no doubt, hired to do the dirty work by some envious wretch whose jealousy at the increasing popularity of the medicine, prompted him to this dark deed. When such means are resorted to destroy the advancement of a justly celebrated medicine, the public may rest assured it is a remedy of unusual merit, as thousands have already attested. oct6-2t

MEMPHIS AND LOUISVILLE LINE.—It will be remembered that recently a freight train on this road ran off the track at Muldrough Hill, Ky., destroying a large quantity of freight, a considerable portion of which was destined for this place. The company—as soon as the news of the disaster came and the names of the losers were ascertained—at once notified the parties to come forward and claim damages. These claims were authenticated and forwarded to Louisville, where they were audited and the money returned here to Mr. Paton, who yesterday paid $507 25 to three of the claimants. The promptness of the company in this case deserves special mention, and should be remembered by our mercantile friends.

THOSE ARMS.

One Hundred and Sixty-seven Cases Arrived, and More on the Way.

Alas, Poor Arkansas!

The APPEAL announced on Saturday morning that several thousand stand of arms, with ammunition therefor, were on the way down the river on the steamer Belle Memphis—arms raised by the Radicals of the Northwest and sent to the Loyal League of Arkansas to be distributed among the negroes of that State. The scheme was so atrocious, the plan so devilish, the whole plot so cold-blooded, and withal so daring, that we could scarcely believe the story ourselves, although it came to us well attested.

Yesterday morning about breakfast time the Belle Memphis came in port, and the report was verified in every particular, one hundred and sixty-seven cases of arms, marked "C. R. Exon" being put out upon the dock as a portion of the down freight of that vessel. We are informed that two men, giving their names as Hodges and Bennett, the latter an ex-captain in the Federal army, came down on the steamer in charge of these cases, and claim that they were purchased for the State government of Arkansas.

It was on this statement, we understand, that the Memphis and St. Louis Packet Company was induced to take the freight. They also promised that they had already made arrangements with the White River Packet Company to send a boat along side of the steamer as soon as she reached Memphis. They, however, reckoned "without their host," as we understand that that company have flatly refused, as has every other boat in that trade, to have anything to do with the affair. We can only say that this is a very wise course of action on their part. Meanwhile the cases are on the wharf, guarded by the police. In this connection we present the following extracts from a private letter to one of the editors of this paper. It will be seen that more arms are on the way. God help poor Arkansas!

"One hundred and sixty-eight boxes of muskets, to be followed by five more cargoes, were shipped from this city to-day for Little Rock. These arms come from Detroit, are taken by some process from the Government arsenal, and are for distribution among the negroes. The whole number of muskets en route to Arkansas is above 5000. The purpose of Clayton and his associates is to carry the election in Arkansas by force. The people should be advised of the facts."

MEDICAL.

A Description of the Memphis Medical College.

Yesterday was the day advertised by the Faculty for the commencement of the preliminary course of lectures at the Memphis Medical College, but owing to some misunderstanding as to the hour at which Dr. Ramsay was to deliver his opening lecture, very few, either students or Faculty, were present at the appointed time, and the regular commencement was postponed until to-day. We availed ourself, however, of the invitation extended to us by Dr. Erskine, and were shown through the college by him. The building is the same that was occupied before the war for this purpose, being the extreme north end of the Exchange Block, in the rear of the Overton Hotel. At the entrance of the Federal troops, the institution was taken possession of by them, and converted into a hospital, at an expense of over one hundred thousand dollars to the city of Memphis. In this capacity it was retained by them as long as the military occupation of the city continued. When they abandoned it they left it in the condition that they did every other building or place in the South that they occupied—robbed and plundered of almost everything of value that was portable, and in a state of complete dilapidation. When the Faculty determined to revive the College they were compelled to go to a heavy expense, and a vast deal of trouble in restoring the building. The seats had to be made anew, as did also the doors, windows, stair rails and even portions of the floor, and there was no end to the cleaning and re-painting, which was necessary to make it fit for use again.

The College occupies the whole of two floors. The first or main floor, which is reached by a short flight of broad steps, from the entrance on Exchange street, contains the City Dispensary, (of which we will speak at the proper place) the lecture rooms and the chemical laboratory. The lecture rooms, two in number, are very large and commodious, each capable of seating three hundred students, very comfortably. The one looking on Front street is for medical lectures proper, while the interior room is for chemical lectures only. Immediately at the head of the stairs on the left on entering, and opening into the chemical lecture room, is the chemical laboratory. This is under the charge of Dr. Alex. Reeves, and is not yet quite fitted up. This branch of the institution, as was the case throughout the whole South, suffered severely from the vandalism of Federal soldiers and officers during the war, almost every valuable philosophical instrument having been broken to pieces, or stolen bodily. Dr. Reeves hopes, however, to have his department in order in a very few days. In this room is the cabinet of materia medica, which is very complete, not having suffered, to any extent, from the ravages to which other portions of the property were subjected.

The second, or more properly third floor, is taken up with the amphitheater, dissecting room, museum and professors' rooms. Immediately above the chemical laboratory, at the head of the stairs, is the museum. This, like the laboratory, suffered very severely during the late war, almost every specimen of any value having been carried off or destroyed. In this room we were shown a portfolio of anatomical drawings made by Dr Maury, which were exceedingly beautiful, and reflect the highest credit, both upon his knowledge of anatomy and his skill as a draughtsman. The dissecting rooms are two in number, and are very commodious and airy. There will be six tables in each, with every convenience for dissection. The amphitheater is excellently arranged, and will seat at least three hundred students. The seats are arranged in a semicircular form, in ascending rows, so that a good view of the lecturer's stand and table can be had from any portion of the room. In the amphitheater is a large cistern, which supplies the balance of the house with water. The Professors' rooms are two in number, and are large and commodious.

The city dispensary, which is situated on the first floor, is a small but well arranged and complete drug store, with an ante-room and private office attached. Here, for two hours each day, from ten a.m. to midday, some of the Faculty are present, and the poor of the city, irrespective of color, can come and be prescribed for and have their medicines gratis. This is a most charitable and laudable institution, and reflects great credit on the good heart and liberality of the Faculty.

The present course will continue until the first Monday in November, when the regular course will begin.

BUZZARD'S ROOST.—The darkies had a grand Radical pow-wow on the bluff, at the "Roost," last night. Pulled-about Smith, Beecher, and a few other white-washed buzzards were on the stand, and their hordes of savage negroes howled around them like two thousand sooty devils without a Kappelmeister. They assembled at the headquarters of the Loyal League, and marched to the bluff in torchlight procession, singing a grand Mandingo chorus. Several highly amiable and christian speeches were made, and the usual Radical doctrines of murder, rape and arson inculcated. The darkies seemed to be of an obliging turn of mind, for they cheered and howled for everything and everybody indiscriminately—Seymour and Blair getting quite as much and as loud cheering as Grant and Colfax.

DEMOCRACY.

Torch-light Procession on the 2d of November.

At a meeting of committees from the First and Second Ward Clubs, held at the Overton Hotel last night, Mr. E. Marshall was called to the chair, and Mr. W. B. Goodlett elected Secretary and Mr. John W. Cochrane Treasurer. The Chairman explained the objects of the meeting to be to confer together in regard to a great Democratic procession to come off on the night of the 2d of November, to participate in which all the clubs of the city are to be invited, and in writing. Judge Marland L. Perkins was elected Grand Marshal, after which an adjournment was had to 7 o'clock on Saturday night, at the same place.

THE EATONS.

John Eaton Bribed with $3000, and L. B. Eaton a Defaulter.

The Bulletin, of yesterday, shows up two prominent Radicals, Editors of the Evening Post:

The writer of an editorial in the Bulletin, intimating that John Eaton, jr., borrowed three thousand dollars of a book house in New York, now distinctly says that the name of that firm is A.S. Barnes & Co., and that John Eaton, jr., in his official position as Superintendent of Education for the State of Tennessee, is now recommending the books of this firm, and that he gave a note for this money, indorsed by L. B. Eaton, representing him as responsible for this sum, when it is well known he is not worth three thousand cents.

The writer furthermore says that the records of the Municipal Clerk's office, and of the State Controller's office show that L. B. Eaton is a defaulter as Clerk of the Municipal Court.

John Eaton, jr., as a Brevet Brigadier General, or L. B. Eaton, as a Lieutenant Colonel, can have the name of the author of the article by inquiring at the Bulletin office.

John Eaton, jr., or L. B. Eaton, or both of them, must not say "liar," unless they are able to prove their assertion. At present, they appear to be getting down almost as low as Smith himself.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Meeting of the Board Yesterday.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of County Commissioners took place yesterday. Present—Commissioners Merriman, White and Hack.

On motion of Dr. White, Hugh Nott, Esq., was allowed to take his name off the bond of A. F. Curry, Sheriff of Shelby county.

On motion of Dr. White, it was resolved that the Committee on Public Buildings be hereafter empowered to attend to and oversee the purchasing of all articles required for the use of the same, save stationery, which is to be in charge of the Committee on Finance.

The petition of the citizens of Shelby county, together with the brief of their attorney relative to a reduction of taxes, having been presented to the Board, the same was received, and on motion referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. White, Hack and Merriman to report on Friday, October 9, 1868.

On motion of Commissioner White it was ordered that the clerk furnish to this Board the amount of warrants ordered and issued to Mr. Powers for building the jail, from January 6, 1868, to August 19, 1868; to W. B. Greenlaw, for rent and to assist in building this building, including the amount to Mr. Powers or any other person. Also the amount for furniture for the county buildings during the past year, to report at the next meeting of the Board.

The bond of A. H. Adams was proved.

The Board ordered that the commissioners appointed for that purpose proceed to build the bridge over Fletcher creek.

The report of the County Attorney, touching the matter of refunding county revenue to the First National Bank, and crediting an amount to the Tennessee National Bank on account of privilege tax, already paid, having been presented to the Board the same was received, and on motion laid on the table for future action.

The Board adjourned till Tuesday, October 6, 1868, at 10 a.m.

PERSONAL.

We are more than pleased to announce to the citizens of Memphis that that gallant patriotic soldier and gentleman, Gen. Gordon Granger, is at present in the city, and has determined to make Memphis his headquarters during his command of this Department.

Ex-Gov. Hammond, of Indiana, a staunch, old Democrat, is in the city stopping at the Overton, on his way to the Hot Springs. Gov. Hammond speaks enthusiastically of the prospects of the Democracy in his section of the country.

Mr. S. L. Alley, of the Greenville (Miss.) Times, passed through our city yesterday en route for the St. Louis Fair.

Wm. M. Perkins, Esq., past Grand Master of the State of Louisiana, is in town stopping for a few days at the Overton.

We had the pleasure yesterday of meeting Louis Heeb, Esq., of Dubuque, Iowa. Mr. Heeb is in the city on business which will detain him some days.

RUN AWAY MATCH.—One of our city hotels, not a thousand miles from the APPEAL office, was the scene yesterday of a highly exciting, and, to the bystanders, amusing "run away match," which added to the already long list, another illustration of the old, old adage, that "love laughs at bolts and bars" and gives the slip to the most linxeyed and watchful of fathers and mothers. One of the most steady and industrious young men of our city, who was engaged against the will of her mamma to a charming young lady, secretly arranged with her to meet him, with her friend, at the hotel aforesaid, at a given time, at which he too would be on hand with the parson, and the twain would immediately be made one. According to agreement all parties were promptly at the time and place, but the mamma by some means, (how do mammas always manage to find out such things?) got wind of the affair, and was on hand too. It is said, (mind we don't aver the truth of the statement), but it is said that she did raise considerable of a commotion, when she got there. The upshot of the affair was, however, that the young couple managed at last to break loose from the too loving embrace of the "enraged parient," and while she was being bamboozled by somebody, broke down stairs jumped into a carriage and made the driver ply his whip until they were beyond the reach of pursuit. The parson followed in another carriage, and the party halting on the bank, some two miles down the river, performed the ceremony, after which all hands came back to the Hotel. The enraged parent threatens the law, but we imagine when she learns the many good qualities of her new son, she will become more amiable.

THE LATE JUDGE JOHN C. HUMPHREYS.

Adjourned Meeting of the Memphis Bar—Resolutions of Respect.

The adjourned meeting of the Bar, in memory of Judge Humphreys, met in the Circuit Courtroom at nine o'clock a.m. on Monday, the 5th of October, and the Chairman of the meeting, Judge H. C. Smith, being absent, the meeting was organized by calling Judge George W. Reeves to the chair.

The Committee on Resolutions then reported, through their chairman, Judge A. Wright, the following preamble and resolutions:

The committee on resolutions beg leave to report as follows:

Judge John Cowan Humphreys was born in Lexington, Ky., on the 1st of June, 1813. He attended the common school of the city until he was fifteen, and then entered college, where he continued for two years, until his father's death. He then commenced the study of the law by himself, having his father's books and office. Subsequently, by the permission of Judge Daniel Mayer, who had married his stepmother, and was law professor in Transylvania University, he entered that institution and took his degree and diploma therefrom in 1834. His father and brother were both able lawyers and judges, and he may be said to have been bred amidst a legal atmosphere. He came to the bar in 1835, and first commenced practice in Dover, Tenn., where he remained till the winter of 1838, when he removed to Somerville and formed a copartnership with his cousin, Judge Watt H. Humphreys. In a very short time his diligence, learning and great ability placed him in the front rank of his profession, and when called to the bench in 1849, he was the legal and confidential adviser of over half the people of Fayette county. He was first elected Judge of this Judicial Circuit by the Legislature, over an able and popular competitor, who had filled the position for a number of years with distinguished ability. Afterward, in 1854, when the election of Judges was brought before the people, he became a candidate, and as party politics were running very high at the time, there was an effort made on party grounds to elect an able lawyer over him; but the people refused to displace so good and upright a Judge, and elected him by a large majority—though his party was in a heavy minority in the district. He continued Judge of this Circuit till the courts were closed by the late war. At the close of the war he was offered a place on the Supreme Bench of the State, but was obliged to decline it on account of his delicate health. This offer was a tribute to his judicial acility and purity of character, for though at no time of his life a politician, yet he was well known to be a firm and steadfast friend of the south in her late struggle, and yielded his oldest son a sacrifice for her on the bloody plains of Shiloh. He and three late Elder, Turley who alone so highly as a member of our Bar; married sisters, and he leaves behind him his wife and an interesting family of children.

He was a man of simple tastes and few wants, and of strictly domestic habits, always, after the labor of the day was over, seeking the bosom of his family and joining his wife and children in familiar conversation and pleasant music, of which he was particularly fond. He was an earnest and zealous Christian—a member of the Episcopal church. As a lawyer he was prominent as a legal adviser; his sound learning, and keen, discriminating and equitable discernment of right and wrong enabled him, as it were, by intuition to grasp the merits of his client's cause and correctly apply the rules of law thereto.

Though he did not possess what is usually styled eloquence, yet his clear, pointed and forcible manner of stating his case, and above all the wonderful weight that his high integrity of character had with the people, made him as formidable an advocate as was ever met before a jury.

He was, however, as a Judge that he was chiefly known and admired. He presided over this circuit at a time when its bar was distinguished for its ability and learning, and yet by common consent it was admitted that we had the rare good fortune to have a lawyer on the bench, and no one, no matter how learned or able, ever appeared before him without feeling that he was addressing a master and superior mind. His character was a blending of the most opposite traits—feminine gentleness with stern and iron firmness—childlike simplicity with wonderful mental shrewdness and acumen—modest diffidence with an utter fearlessness in the discharge of duty. Nature seems to have gathered her finest and noblest attributes and harmoniously moulded them in his character in order to stamp him a perfect judge.

Consumption's "ghastly form" has deprived our state of this good and valued man in the prime of life, and we, his friends and admirers, are left to mourn his loss, and mingle our sympathies with his bereaved and sorrowing family. Therefore,

Resolved, That the Bench, the Bar and the people of Tennessee, have met with an irreparable loss in the death of Judge John C. Humphreys.

2. That the courts of the city be requested to spread this preamble and resolutions upon their minutes.

3. That we extend to the family of our deceased brother our warmest sympathies in their sorrow and bereavement.

4. That a copy of these proceedings be sent to his family.

They were then, upon motion, adopted by the meeting.

Upon motion, the following persons were appointed to present the preamble and resolutions to the different courts of the city:

Charles Kortrecht, to the Circuit Court; Judge Thomas R. Smith, to the Chancery Court; R. S. Parham, Esq., to the Municipal Court; J. A. Anderson, to the Law Court; Judge P. T. Scruggs, to the Criminal Court, and E. M. Yerger, to the United States Court.

It was, upon motion, resolved that the city papers be requested to publish these proceedings. The meeting then adjourned

GEORGE W. REEVES, Chairman.
J. A. ANDERSON, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business was lively on the levee yesterday, and the port list was very respectable.

The towboat Grand Lake passed down yesterday with a big tow.

The Little Leader arrived with three barges of salt from above.

The J. N. Kellogg, which burned her boilers on her up trip, repaired and left last night for above.

The elegant passenger steamer City of Alton, Capt. Bill Thompson, with Jim White in the office, will pass down at 5 p.m. on to-day for Vicksburg and New Orleans. Passengers should take to Alton by all means.

The H. M. Shreve passed down last night, and the Luminary passed up in the morning.

The Ozark was repairing her chimneys yesterday, but no doubt got away last night. This line never fail to send out their packets regularly.

Capt. Isaac Jones, of the Olive Branch, is laid up with chills.

The United States mail packet Liberty, Capt. Jim Rice, backs out at 5 p.m. for White river. She makes all way landings, connects with the packet for all points above Jacksonport and with the train at Devall's Bluff for Little Rock. Mif. Harry and Charley Sharpe are her clerks.

The splendid passenger packet City of Cairo, Capt. Malin, with the popular Ben. Clark in the office, backs out to-day for Cairo and St. Louis, where she connects for the North and East. Persons visiting the Fair should go on the Cairo.

The friends of Capt. Tom. Bay, who are legions, especially along the classic St. Francis, will be glad to know that the home of Forster, Kealhoer & Co. is a partner, have just received large additions to their stock.

The Silver Moon, Capt. Ben Merrielees, who is both master and clerk, and is competent to fill both positions, will leave this day at 5 p.m. for Cairo and Cincinnati. She is the only packet for the Ohio to-day.

The "arms and ammunition" for the truly loil of Arkansas, are now on the landing. They will find it hard to get transportation, however, to their destination, as our river men will not lend themselves or their boats to further the ends of Radicalism. All the boats in port yesterday refused to touch such freight.

The Mississippi, Capt. Nat S. Green, will leave for New Orleans on Wednesday. She is a magnificent passenger packet.

The handsome steamer Des Arc is the independent White river packet to-day. Capt. Jno. Elliott will back her out on time, and goes to Jacksonport, making all way landings. Joe Elliott and Matt Glass are her clerks.

The gay Mollie Hambleton, of which Tom Bowman is master, goes out to-day for all points on St. Francis river. She is the only packet for that stream, and goes to Madison this trip. Paine, Clark and Shell are clerks.

The City of Cairo, which left St. Louis on Saturday evening, arrived here at 12 o'clock, or in forty hours. This is the quickest trip for many months. Under the restaurant system it coaxes her passengers but $9 75, from port to port.

The Liberty, on her down trip, made the run from Devall's Bluff to this port, 300 miles, in ten hours, making eight landings. Quick time.

The Cora S. will be in port, to leave for Fort Smith to morrow at 2 p.m.

The Mississippi is due from below.

The Ruth passed down yesterday.

Capt. Smith and Mr. Watson, who were engaged in the late shooting affair at Vicksburg, we are glad to learn, are improving, with fair prospects of recovery.

We regret to record the death of C. Y. Anthony, better known in Memphis as "Tony." He died in St. Louis on Wednesday last. Tony was well known in river circles, and especially around this city, where he had many friends who will regret to hear of his demise. He kept bar on several packets, and at one time was proprietor of the "Office" saloon, corner of Madison and Front streets.

The Vicksburg Herald says: The Myrtle met with an accident last Wednesday morning, when within twelve miles of Yazoo City, running through herself, bursting a cylinder head and breaking a shaft.

FINANCE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, }
MEMPHIS, October 5, 1868. }

The ruling feature in many circles for the week has been tightness. The demand for loans was more than usually active, but only a few applications were entertained. This stringency is accounted for by the fact that the banking capital of Memphis is at best entirely too small—less by four-fifths than it was before the war. Our national banks having their quarterly statements to make out, and which will soon appear, were not as liberal lenders as they otherwise would have been. The movement of the small amount of cotton already received, has been clogged to some extent by this scarcity of currency which has to be brought on per express.

A considerable amount of our bank capital is out in the shape of call loans, secured by collaterals in the way of bonds and scrip which parties do not wish to throw upon the market, and as the disposition is to accommodate as much as possible, our dealers are not as urgent as they otherwise would be. Our banks suffer to this extent, as rates are seldom over 1 per cent. on loans of this character.

Rates of exchange which have been heavy for some days, have been reduced to-day by agreement between our principal discount houses. Cotton bills which at present are about the only form of exchange offering, are taken on all Eastern points at ½c discount and sold at par. The offerings are larger at this rate than our banks are able or willing to take. A few transactions were reported between dealers at ¼c discount, but the counter rates were as above.

In stocks and bonds there is little doing. An offer of 44½ for $5000 Memphis and Little Rock bonds was refused. City bonds are quiet, or rather dealers are reticent about them. Sales are made daily, which are kept hidden from the press for some reason or other. In view of this fact we would advise holders to be firm for soon as currency becomes easier, which it will do very shortly, there will be a demand for bonds, and prices will advance; 50c is the present buying rate.

City Scrip is firm at 72@73c buying; selling at 75@78c.

County Warrants are some firmer to-day, under an effort to force them up. Buying at 55@58c; selling at 60@65c, as to size of pieces.

School Scrip is steady at 80@85c buying; selling at 90c.

Police Scrip firm. Buying at 80@82½; selling at 85@85.

Gold has declined steadily since our last, closing in New York to-day at 140¼c. 138¾ is the buying rate in our market for small sums, with no outside demand.

The expenses of the government for September are $28,454,839. This amount does not include interest on the public debt.

Cincinnati has a tobacco ring, who swindle the Government monthly out of $100,000. The detectives are after the gentlemen.

The mining claim of McGregor & Co., on Confederate Gulch, near Diamond City, Montana, yielded $35,000 over and above running expenses during the past two weeks.

COTTON.

The Liverpool market, at the opening of this week, was firm, Uplands 10d, Orleans 10¼d. Prices have advanced steadily, and that market has been active all the week, the last advices, which was received at 1 p.m., to-day quoting that market buoyant, Uplands 11d, Orleans 11¼d, an advance of ¼d during the week.

The week opened with a fair demand to New York, and Uplands firm at 28c, closing quiet and weak—Low Middlings 26½c; the closings 27¼c; Orleans 27¼c; Good Middlings 29½. This shows a decline in New York of ¾c since morning.

Our market was active during the week, but prices did not advance with other markets. This is attributed to the fact that prices here have been all along too high, and orders could not be filled. Several prominent buyers have returned during the week, but can scarcely be said to have commenced operations as yet. The major part of the receipts, to date, have run in low grades, or from Good Ordinaries to Low Middlings, but we look for more of the finer grades to come in—now that the weather has been fine for over a week.

The market, until Saturday, was tolerably firm, upon a basis of 25c for Middlings, and since then has advanced fully ½c, closing firm. Sales to-day were as follows: 15 bales Ordinary 22½c; 3 at 22c; 7 at 22c; 3 Good Ordinary 22½c; 6 at 22½c; 13 at 22½c; 3 at 22c; 2 at 22½c; 16 at 22½c; 13 at 22½c; 2 at 22½c; 2 at 22½c; 3 at 23c; 3 at 23c; 15 at 23c; 4 at 22½c; 6 at 22½c; 5 at 22½c; 4 Low Middlings at 22½c; 4 at 23c; 2 at 23½c; 20 at 23c; 15 at 23c; 1 at 23½c; 2 at 23½c; 1 at 23½c; 20 at 23½c; 8 at 23½c; 20 at 23½c; 70 in various lots, 23½c; 3 at 23½c; 2 at 23½c; 1 at 23c; 1 at 22½c; 1 at 22½c; 3 at 23c; 2 at 23½c; 15 at 23½c; 3 at 23½c; 13 at 23½c; 46 at 23½c; 15 at 23½c; 15 at 23½c; 2 at 23½c; 2 at 23c; 4 bales Middlings, 23½c; 2 at 24c; 17 at 24c; 15 at 24½c; 4 at 24c; 8 at 24c; 10 at 24c; 18 at 24c; 18 at 24c; 3 at 24c; 2 at 24c; 18 at 25c; 6 at 24c; 7 at 25c; 58 at 25c; 14 at 24c; 20 at 24½c; 3 at 24½c; 18 at 24c; 15 at 24½c; 5 at 24c; 3 bales Strict Middlings, 24½c; 1 at 25c; 1 at 25c; 2 at 25c; 2 at 25c.

TRADE.

Beautiful weather characterized the week just gone, and though trade has been very fair it was not so good as it would have been had the planter felt disposed to leave his cotton fields at this eventful period to visit the city. While we would exult in more activity in the general markets, we are not at all disposed to grumble, knowing that the comparative scarcity of buyers is caused by the very best of reasons, and will only defer the matter for a few days at the farthest.

Stocks are mostly light. This is especially the case with meats, which have advanced since our last, and are very firm. Bagging, ties, sugar and molasses, are unchanged, with a fair demand. Corn, hay and oats are scarce and very firm.

The Memphis dry goods market for the week has been quite active. Our jobbing houses are doing probably as large a business as at any time since the war, and what is doing is of a safe and legitimate character. There is no disposition to "drive" upon the part of the house, neither is the country merchant at all inclined to overstock himself. To this complexion of affairs do we attribute the large amount of jobbing trade now doing. The dealer from the interior finds it far better to buy six, eight or ten times every year, than to lay in enormous and probably unprofitable stocks in the spring and fall. As an evidence of the change brought about by the war, and the bad crops of the past three years in this respect, it is only necessary to glance at the shelves of our dealers throughout the country. No old unfashionable and useless goods encumber their shelves, with which their customers have become almost as familiar as the salesman, but in their stead are smaller, fresher and more desirable goods which can be duplicated as fast as sold. Prices are firmer at last week's quotations.

In boots and shoes we have very little change to note. The market remains very firm, and all kinds of winter wear are in active demand. Stocks which were pretty well run down during the latter part of last month, are again being renewed, and will within the next week be as large and complete as at the opening of the season. The new stocks coming in will probably be higher than those now on hand, as manufacturers have advanced their rates on reasonable goods. We quote:

The farmers of Sumner county Tennessee are now busy grinding the sorghum cane and boiling down the molasses. It is feared that the long rains may have shortened the yield. It sells at seventy-five cents per gallon.

The North Carolina rice crop of 1868, will be much larger and finer than for many years.

A well informed gentleman writing to the New York World, from Chicago, closes a letter in this language:

"There is no fix in this country, standing upon the ground, and being cut up, out of the way of danger and harm from any source, the greatest crop of corn we ever grew. Considering the yield and increased average, there never was anything like it before in the West. And I am told the corn crop of the Southern States is equally prolific. This, while it may not tell immediately upon prices, will have its effect within sixty days. You may ask if English markets will not appreciate under their injury done to the root crops of Great Britain by the severe drouth of the past season. In reply, should English markets advance, which is not at all improbable, the advance in ocean freights will more than counterbalance such advance, so that I see no other conclusion to arrive at but the one upon which I started out, that corn for a speculation, indoomed for a decline.
